Good Morning:

Attached is a news release from the Oakland Press in Pontiac, Michigan dated February 10, 1989 indicating that a Rochester Hills Assistant Fire Chief, Michael C. Spangler participated with three young male fire cadets in sex acts during a period of 1981 thru 1986.

Michael Spangler was a member of the committee of an Explorer Post at the Avon Fire Department for an approximately two year block of time during June, 1977 thru June, 1979.

The three individuals that have brought cases against Mr. Spangler have not been identified by the public or the newspaper. We have not been contacted by any officials regarding this issue.

Miriam Kaptur, a Senior Exploring Executive on our staff, has communicated with the Avon Fire Department and Rochester Hills Public Affairs Department attempting to discover if any of our Explorer Members were, in fact, involved. To date, it is their indication and our understanding that we are not related to these incidents. The Fire Department does not currently have a charter.

We are forwarding this information to your department at the National Office for reference material, in case it is needed in the future. If you have questions, please contact me at your convenience.

Sincerely,

CONF011880

Sex scheme for cadets called simple

By TIM HART
Of The Oakland Press

"It was not a complicated scheme" by which Rochester Hills Assistant Fire Chief Michael C. Spangler enticed three young male fire cadets into sex acts on dozens of occasions, an assistant Oakland County prosecutor said during his preliminary examination Thursday.

"Mr. Spangler was in a position of authority in the fire department," said Joyce Todd, head of the new criminal sexual conduct unit of the Prosecutor's Office. "I see a pattern of behavior (in which) Mr. Spangler used his authority to abuse that association with the cadets."

Testimony from three alleged victims in the case detailed that pattern: Spangler bought the youngsters beer, drank with them as they watched heterosexual pornographic films and assaulted them through fellatio or fondling when they were sleepy or drunk.

Meanwhile, Spangler's attorney Donald Brown said his client probably will submit to a voluntary AIDS antibody test requested last week by Prosecutor Richard Thompson.

"They probably will not have to get a court order," as Thompson threatened last week if Spangler did not voluntarily submit to the test, Brown said. "We intend to cooperate to all extents possible, as long as it does not interfere with our defense."

There has been no evidence to suggest Spangler is an AIDS carrier.

Spangler, 45, a lifetime Rochester Hills resident, is charged with 11 felony counts and one misdemeanor count of criminal sexual conduct involving boys ranging in age from 11 to 16 in 1981, 1982, 1985 and 1986. He is also charged with three misdemeanor counts of contributing to the delinquency of minors, stemming from allegations he furnished the boys with alcohol.

The felony sex charges range from first- to third-degree criminal sexual conduct. All the cases involved a form of penetration but the age of the victim defines the degree.

Spangler allegedly confessed to the assaults — which allegedly occurred in his home — in interviews with an Oakland County sheriff's detective at the Oakland County Jail.

Judge Ralph Nelson Thursday ordered Spangler bound over to face Circuit Court arraignment on all the charges Feb. 27 before Judge John N. O'Brien.

During Thursday's exam, the three frightened former cadets slipped into the court's witness box via a back hallway and detailed Spangler's "scheme" which led them into sexual situations.

Bush budget to help poor, schools

kindergarten children are eligible for Head Start, and currently there are places for only 453,000.

Working poor families with infants and toddlers would benefit from another budget plank lifted intact from the Bush campaign: a new-tax credit of up to $1,000 per child under age 4.

This credit would be refundable to families that don't pay income taxes, and would be phased out for families with incomes between $8,000 and $13,000 in 1990.

Bush also wants to tinker with the tax code to spur adoptions. "I propose to re-enact the tax deduction for adoption expenses, and to double it to $3,000," he said.

He would pump more than a quarter-billion dollars extra into the war on drugs, already slated for a sizable increase in the final Reagan budget. All told, the Bush administration sought $5.5 billion to wage the fight against drugs, $974 million, or 21 percent more than in the current budget.

Victims of crime might be helped by Bush's request to increase a federal compensation fund to $125 million from $94 million.

He proposed a variety of incentives for America's students and teachers, including the first $30 million toward an eventual $500 million "Presidential Merit Schools" program and new awards of $5,000 apiece to 1,200 teachers.

While Bush shelved a Reagan plan to cut more than $1 billion from Medicaid payments to states, he still hopes to pare Medicare's budget by $5 billion.

Bush said his Medicaid budget would expand coverage to pregnant women and infants up to 185 percent of the poverty line, and poor children up to age 8. He also wants to allow poor families to get immunizations for children under 6 simply by showing a food stamp card at clinics.

For the homeless, Bush proposed full funding of the McKinney Act, which would boost spending from $500 million to $644 million, and he wants to launch a new $50 million initiative to help move homeless families out of welfare hotels and improve services for the mentally ill.

Authority allegedly used in assault of cadets

"I was scared," one man, now 20, testified repeatedly. He was assaulted more than 30 times over an 18-month period in 1981 and 1982, from before his 12th birthday until after his 13th, he said.

Often the youngsters would go with Spangler to arcades, sporting events or amusement parks and one boy would end up at his home to watch the films and drink beer, one victim testified.

The victim finally ended the "relationship" after a trip to the Cedar Point amusement park in Ohio. "He was upset," the man said about Spangler's reaction.

The man's 18-year-old brother would testify that he too was assaulted by Spangler on several occasions in 1985.

"We went to a party store and went to his home" on several occasions, the man testified, mirroring the scenario offered by all three victims. "We drank beer and watched pornographic movies. I fell asleep on the couch and Mr. Spangler came over and started fondling me" and engaged in oral sex, the man testified.

On one occasion, Spangler promised to take $50 off the price of a motorcycle he was selling to one youth in exchange for oral sex, the man testified.

In another case, "he wrestled me to the ground and took my pants off," engaging in oral sex, another man testified. Two weeks later, the same boy was sleeping off a drinking binge in Spangler's bedroom when Spangler came in, pushed a dresser in front of the door, and again assaulted the then-15-year-old teen.

All three men said they were afraid to come forward with their stories until they were approached by police. Sheriff's Detective Mike Elliott said he was tipped off and "ran down the list of cadets" enrolled in the city program until he found people who told him of the alleged assaults.

After each victim testified Thursday, Elliott offered matching statements taken from a confession Spangler gave in the Oakland County Jail on Jan. 31.

Spangler remains held in the Oakland County Jail in lieu of $100,000 bond.
